“ Shirley and Joe, I am so sorry to hear of Oz's passing. I am equally sorry that I could not come to his memorial service even though I tried to arrange the time to spend with each of you at this sad but in many respects a happy and joyous occasion to remember a good, honest, thoughtful person. A catering, caring husband, father and grandfather. A friend, co-worker and the lead singer in our paint shop duo. Boy did he like to sing!!! And very good to. I usually just kept quit. I am no good at singing. I recall vividly our long work weeks in which we would begin talking about which bar-b-que joint we would go to for lunch at weeks end Fridays and a lot of Saturdays. You knew more than I ever did that's for sure. Your talent and skill and expertise were superb and unmatched. I think our healthy and playful work ethics was almost like a daily competition of "dueling banjo's". Neither of us lost, both of us won. It made the work days enjoyable, rewarding and fulfilled. I always think of you and Willie. You two were a comedy act when y'all got together. I always admired Marines and they were perfect for you which really stood out to me. You lived their motto, Semper Fi, " Always Faithful ". I' m so grateful that our paths crossed. I am blessed to have known you. I know we will meet again some day. Do you remember what I liked to say, Happy trails till we meet again. Tim Forbes
