“ Life is a journey filled with highs and lows, and our story was no different. Though our time together was not without its challenges, there were moments of joy and connection that I’ll always hold close. Shanequa was an important part of my life, and her presence shaped who I am in ways I’m still discovering.

While the paths we walked weren’t always aligned, I’m choosing to remember the good times, the laughter we shared, and the lessons learned. Her passing reminds me how fragile and fleeting life is, and I hope she has found peace.
